Focus ON STORAGE

It pays to carve out storage that's precisely tailored to your needs for now and the future. Pantries have been around for centuries for good reason: they're an invaluable way of ensuring all your produce is to hand. Larders have become a staple in most homes, offering storage and convenience without needing the space for a separate room. Here, a huge double pantry cabinet creates a home for everything, with engraved crates, built-in baskets and tiered shelving. Positioned opposite the hob and right next to the ovens, it makes cooking that little bit easier, while additional wine storage accessed via a library ladder adds real wow factor. The American walnut cabinetry is taken right to the ceiling, with cornice detailing eliminating any dust traps, while also adding warmth and contrast to the design.

Davenport kitchens start from £50,000. A similar larder unit would cost between £16,000 and £18,000.
